

FOWL AND FURIOUS

THEY TOOK THE TREE. TAKE IT BACK.

FORT ONE. THE SLING AT FULL DRAW.

FORT 46. EIGHT PIGS, AND A BIRD IN THE AIR.

FORT 37. ONE OF THE SIX SKIES.

The birds had a tree. The pigs had a field, a saw, and one whole night while the choir slept. By morning there were fifty forts on the ridge, with a pig inside each one looking pleased.

You have the last fork of the trunk, a length of elastic, and a queue of birds. You are not demolishing anything. You are taking the timber back, one plank at a time, and it has to land on somebody.

Nothing is scored for the wreckage. The score is what the wreckage lands on — or the bird, if it gets there first — plus a hundred for every bird you did not need.
